10

15

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a system, primary audio stream A0 and secondary audio stream A1 are recorded on a write-once type recording medium such as a DVD-R. The system comprises first to third recording sections. The first recording section is configured to record a first original audio stream as stream A0 on the DVD-R. The second recording section is configured to record a second original audio stream as stream A1 on the DVD-R. The second original audio stream is recordable independently of the first original audio stream. The third recording section is configured to record a modified audio stream as stream A1 on the DVD-R. The modified audio stream is obtained by partially or entirely modifying the second original audio stream.